PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Administrative professional with four years running the front line of busy, client-facing offices, plus two years as a practicing dentist before that, so a healthcare setting and a confidential patient record are familiar ground rather than something to learn. Day to day I am the person who answers the phone, books and confirms the appointments, keeps the records clean and chases the open items until they close. I work unsupervised against defined response times, I write clear warm English on calls and in writing, and I am fast at picking up a new system because I am usually the one who writes the SOP and trains everyone else on it. I also design in Canva and have run business social accounts end to end, from planning to captions to scheduling. Set up and available for the night shift, with a private home office, backup internet and power backup.

CORE SKILLS

Administrative Support & Scheduling: Owning the calendar: bookings, confirmations, reminders, cancellations, clashes and rescheduling, all handled the same day. Inbox and queue management with nothing left sitting unanswered, plus document preparation, data entry, filing and reporting. Four years of doing this for offices where a missed booking or a wrong record is felt immediately.

Client Communication & Customer Service: High-volume inbound and outbound calls alongside email and messaging, for 500+ people in my current seat. Patient in my clinical years with anxious, distressed and first-time patients, and used to slowing down rather than rushing someone through a call. Warm, clear written and spoken English, and the judgement to know when something is outside my scope and belongs with a clinician straight away.

Healthcare Records & Confidentiality: BDS-qualified and practiced: medical terminology, clinical notes, charting, prescriptions, referrals, consent and patient confidentiality. Records kept complete, consistent and audit-ready, and I can follow a clinician's dictation without asking them to repeat the basics. Quick to master EHR, practice-management and telehealth platforms, which run on the same patient record, scheduling and documentation logic I already work in.

Canva, Social Media & Content: Comfortable in Canva building post graphics, carousels, flyers and simple branded templates, working to a set palette and font so everything stays on brand. Have run business social accounts end to end: content planning, captions, scheduling and keeping a consistent posting rhythm. Also CapCut for short video edits and WordPress for page updates.

Systems, Tools & Learning New Platforms: Advanced Microsoft Excel, Microsoft Office and Google Workspace; CRM and ticketing queues; Zoom and video-visit workflows; Notion, Trello and cloud drives. Confident running five or more systems at once and genuinely quick on a new one. I write the SOPs and train colleagues whenever a new tool lands, and I build the automation when a manual step is costing hours: a reminder service that contacts 500+ people before their documents expire and a daily reporting dashboard used by 28+ managers, both running in production.

Reliability & Remote Setup: Four years working to defined response times without supervision, with written handovers so nobody has to ask where something stands. Private home office, high-speed fiber with a backup connection and power backup, HD webcam and headset. Available for graveyard and night shifts and for a minimum of 20 hours per week. English (fluent), Arabic (native), German (conversational).
